Ahuja considers his drawing to be a very intimate means of expression. He says that the method of his artistic execution - whether it was charcoal, pencil, pen or crayon - varies according to the subject and personal circumstance. His sensitively drawn spare works in elegant, unshaded line, describing simplified forms also combines bolder, thicker forms which are more simplified and devoid of detail. The forms in his drawings appear almost sculptural. Apart from drawings, the artist has also worked across mediums like charcoal, acrylic, oils, painting, clay and even metal sculptures.
